Council flats get almost £1 million for insulation

COUNCIL flats are being made warmer and more energy efficient thanks to funding approaching the million pound mark.

It follows a successful bid by Greenwich Council to the Homes and Communities Agency for the funding to provide cavity wall insulation. A total of 1,446 homes in medium to high blocks will benefit from the £938,100 award.

Cllr Rajwant Sidhu., the cabinet member for Greener Greenwich,

by Peter Cordwell

told GT: "The work is starting now and will go on until March, 2011. As well as making flats warmer, the insulation will make average savings of fuel bills to tenants of £53 a year."

The borough's Standard Assessment Procedure rating - the government's energy efficiency measure - rose from 52 in April, 2000, to 72 in April last year.

Cavity wall insulation is one of the cheapest and best ways to achieve energy efficiency, especially in houses and low-rise blocks, and almost all such council homes in the borough have it.

Access to higher blocks has been made possible by the new funding.

"Where possible we are tying in the work with the Decent Homes programme to use the same scaffolding to reduce costs and minimise disruption for tenants," said Cllr Sidhu.

WITH the weather still so cold that we're all staying indoors, I suspect many of you, like me, are wondering just how we are going to achieve our New Year's resolution to be healthier.

Well, more help will soon be at hand. Have you heard about the NHS Health Checks? Every person aged 40-74 will be entitled to a free health check.

We'll be able to advise you on how to make healthier choices and support you along the way.

The NHS Health Check Plus assesses your risk of developing heart disease, stroke, kidney disease and diabetes. If there are any warning signs, then together we can do something about it. By taking early action, you can improve your health and prevent the onset of these conditions.

The PLUS bit is just for you in Greenwich. We want to help you to be healthy in other areas as well.

So we will ensure that you are receiving services such as cancer screening and psychological therapies if you need them.

The NHS Health Check Plus should take about 20-30 minutes and is based on straightforward questions and measurements such as age, sex, family history, height, weight and blood pressure.

There will also be a simple blood test to measure your cholesterol level. Following the check, you will receive free personalised advice about what you can do to stay healthy.

We have seen nearly 2,000 people already in Greenwich. We have been to supermarkets, council summer events, local mosques and local leisure centres. We will continue with this all year round.

However, I have even better news for you. Your GP practice will soon be able to provide this free NHS Health check, so you really won't need to travel far to get help with being healthy.

If you want any further information about where your nearest health check is please call 0800 917 1273.

So wonder no more, you really can start looking forward to a summer of good health.

Landlords ordered to improve flat

ACTION to help tenants who complained of damp and cold conditions in their basement flat has been upheld by a Residential Property Tribunal. Greenwich Council had served an improvement notice on the Estate Charity of William Hatcliffe in regard to the flat in Woodlands Park Road, Greenwich.

Environmental Health officers inspected the property and found tenants living with mould and condensation on the walls and heating provided by a couple of portable heaters, conditions that added up to category one hazard. Tenants had to crawl under a cold water tank to reach the key meter and a broken window was propped open with a piece of wood. The landlords had previously blocked an offer of a grant to install central heating in the flat. The tribunal ordered that all the improvement work had to be completed by the March 29. Cllr Maureen O'Mara, the council's cabinet member for neighbourhood services, said: "The tribunal's decision vindicated the action taken by council officers to enforce landlords' responsibilities under the housing acts." She added that it was disappointing that action had needed to be taken against a housing charity that should be aware of their responsibilities to maintain safe and hazard-free accommodation.

Tony beats the pain
to make black belt

by Peter Cordwell

GETTING the bug again for Taekwondo was only a part of Tony Kerr's great achievement in becoming a first dan black belt.

The 43-year-old painter and decorator has done it despite a disability that "still gives me grief every day".

Tony, from Charlton, told GT: "I was ecstatic to get my black belt in December and so was my family and friends. I'll never be able to fight in competitions but hopefully I'll be able to pass on the skills of this wonderful sport."

Tony suffered a compound fracture of his leg when he was 19 and working on a building site. "I did Taekwondo years ago and my son started doing it. He got up to black tag and, you know what it's like, I got the bug."

"I got into it knowing I wouldn't be able to compete but to get my black belt was something else. I saw a flier for the Tan'Gun Taekwondo club in the borough and went along to one of their sessions. I have to wear shoes when I do it - for balance. My shoes are my feet, if you know what I mean."

"Gradually I worked my way up through the belts. I failed my dan grade last September but took it again on December 12 and - hallelujah! It was an amazing feeling, something that I never thought I would achieve with my disability.

"It still gives me grief every day but it's life, you just get on with it, I don't let anything hold me back."

Tony already helps with the warming up at the Tan'Gun club and hopes to train the youngsters one day. He said: "I'm happy to train three times a week at the moment but I'd like to teach it in the future. It's a wonderful sport, giving kids confidence and self-discipline but being able to defend themselves if necessary."

Master Derek Sumner, who manages the British Taekwondo technical team, told GT: "Tony gave his all to pass the very demanding physical but more important mental strain required to meet the grade. He will be an inspiration to the younger students that we hope will follow in his footsteps."

Chief Tan'Gun instructor David Carmichael said: "We're all so proud of Tony. He's an example to all our members."

'Walking is Working' on streets of Greenwich

by Pat Greenwood

COMMUNITY police are taking steps - 15,000 a day, on average! - to liaise with residents and businesses for a safer Greenwich.

Safer Neighbourhoods teams from across the borough have taken up the new Met's 'Walking is Working' campaign in earnest, and invited GT to help them get the message across.

Community support officer Pablo Duprat, a familiar face on Ferrier Estate, Kidbrooke, wore a pedometer for the first four days of the campaign - and clocked up 60,000 steps.

Chief Inspector Andrew Johnstone said: "If you multiply that figure for every officer patrolling on foot, that's millions of steps being taken to work with our partners, prioritise local issues and keep our neighbourhoods safe."

Newly-appointed Eltham police sergeant Marianne Rees, who joined colleague Sgt Neil Washington from the Ferrier team for the local campaign launch, said: "When we're out on the streets, our aim is to be visible, deter crime and keep the area safe."

She added: "We are distributing leaflets and encouraging people to come along and talk to us - either outside the shops or on streets where they live - during regular early-evening sessions which we hope to hold every fortnight."

Officers from the borough's "Safer Neighbourhoods" teams always aim to spend at least 80 per cent of their time on foot-patrol - singly, where possible.

PCSOs call on burglary victims to give follow-up support and advice, and they regularly check on older people living on their particular patch, as well as liaising with the schools.

Pablo and his colleague Neal Morgan also make regular community safety presentations to newly-arrived students at the European language-school in Meadowcourt Road, Lee.

Pablo, an IT executive until two years ago, told GT: "I'm happier now than I've ever been. We meet all sorts of people - and if just one child calls out 'Hello Pablo' on their way to school that really sets me up for the day!"

Eltham South PCSO Susan Stacey was a primary school teaching assistant until a couple of years ago. "My three children were grown up enough and I needed a new challenge," she told GT. "I hope that, when people see officers around, they feel reassured."

Greenwich police teams are:

- Reducing burglary and setting up night time operations - several burglars have been arrested. Residential burglary in Greenwich is currently down by 8.4%.
- Acting on intelligence, disrupting crime such as drug dealing, anti-social behaviour and motor vehicle crime which is down by 26.3%
- Discouraging theft, pickpockets and robbers in all town centres by patrolling, distributing leaflets and liaising with local shops. Personal robberies have been reduced by 24.5 per cent
- Patrolling public transport and transport interchanges. Bus crime in Greenwich is down by 28 per cent
- Stopping and searching using metal detectors. Knife crime in the borough has been reduced by 24.3 per cent

Councillors agree to 'the other big freeze'

COUNCILLORS have voted to freeze the borough element of Council Tax for the second year running. The decision was taken by Full Council last Wednesday (January 27). The decision means that the part of Council Tax which pays for Greenwich Council services will have been frozen over six of the last 12 years. Over the past decade Greenwich's Council tax increases have been the third-lowest in the capital. The final level of Council tax will be known later this month once the Mayor of London has made a decision on the levy that funds London-wide services such as transport, police and fire services. Bills will be issued to householders and businesses in early March.

Thanks for being positive

THANK you very much for your article on the young players at the Charlton Athletic Advance Centre. My family were delighted to read your article and you will doubtless be pleased to hear that, as we have posted copies of the paper to my brother and sister, the Greenwich Time is now being read in Trinidad and Virginia! My son Timothy took the paper into school and also to church and both the headmistress and the vicar were very impressed with the report. It is so refreshing to read a positive report on young people and their achievements and I thank you for highlighting this. Maybe you should consider reporting on the closure of the David Beckham Academy, which Timothy attended since he was five years old and now hundreds of boys are left without a football club to attend on a Saturday morning. I can put you in contact with parents who have signed a petition about the unhappy situation.

Quite right to tackle scammers

IT was great news to hear that the council is launching a Scamnesty campaign to tackle the problems of scam mailings. There is never a week that goes by without me receiving a fake prize draw letter, invitations to join foreign fake lottery schemes or miracle potions that will supposedly cure me of all my ills.

In fact, I get so many nowadays I have to feel sorry for my local postie carrying all that excess weight in his bag. I really hope the council can help to clamp down on these criminals looking to make money out of vulnerable people. I'll certainly be bringing my examples of scam letters to the Town Hall - I only hope the Scamnesty bin is big enough to take them all!

STAR LETTER

Why hasn't my door been done?

I READ with interest the letter from Sue Edwards about her friend's home. I would like to know why, when the Decent Homes project was started (our house has already been done), were the front doors not included? I have an old wooden door that lets most of the heat in my hallway out as it does not fit properly, the door lock breaks on a regular basis and when wet the door drops and sticks. My other question is, why do some empty houses never get into the Greenwich Time? I know of several houses that have been empty but then are done up, never go into Greenwich Time and then miraculously are let to families. Two houses in question are on Hambledown Road, Sidcup, Kent (Avery Hill estate), and Anstridge Road, Eltham (Avery Hill Estate).

to take a look at your door to see if it has deteriorated since the last survey, which found it to be in good condition. We have been assured that your property has benefitted from new windows, a new kitchen and a new heating system. With regards to the properties you failed to see advertised in GT, the first was directly matched to an overcrowded family as part of our programme to extend suitable properties. The second has yet to be advertised.

I'M sure many of your readers whose lives have been enhanced by reading 'Catcher in the Rye' will join me in lamenting the death of J.D. Salinger on January 27. I would also urge any budding young writers in Greenwich to immerse themselves in this great writer.

Council hosts tribute event to victims of the Holocaust

by Hilary Bryan

NINE and ten-year-olds read poignant extracts from the Diary of Anne Frank for a Town Hall commemoration of Holocaust Memorial Day.

And the Mayor of Greenwich recalled a 'chilling' visit to the Nazi concentration camp Auschwitz-Birkenau.

It was all part of a 40-minute ceremony hosted by Greenwich Council in Victoria Hall, last Wednesday, January 27.

The event was one of many held across the borough to mark the 65th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz by the Soviet Army.

The annual national celebration has been taking place in the UK since 2001 and urges everyone to reflect on what can happen when racism and prejudice are left unchecked. The day also highlights those affected by subsequent genocides in Cambodia, Rwanda, Bosnia and the ongoing atrocities in Darfur.

This year the Holocaust Memorial Day Trust challenged everyone to become part of a 'Legacy of Hope' and the theme was a focus of events at ceremonies across the country.

Five Year 5 pupils from Cardwell Primary school reflected the theme as they read passages from Anne Frank's diary. They also helped to light a candle of hope with Saeed Ahmad, chair of Greenwich Council for Racial Equality, the mayor and Cllr Peter Kotz, the council's cabinet member with responsibility for social inclusion, who said: "We all have the opportunity to be part of the legacy of hope."

Greenwich Mayor Allan MacCarthy who hosted the event focused on the word 'difference' and said: "We need difference in our world - difference can also be called diversity which is something we absolutely should celebrate. There is hope and we must keep that in our own hearts and do all we can to make sure that never again, anywhere, such atrocities occur - even on a small scale."

Attending the public event were councillors, faith group leaders and 90-year-old Gertrude Evans, a Greenwich resident who escaped from Berlin in 1939 leaving her parents behind.

The former social worker from Charlton said: "It's very important indeed to have this day because we ought to learn that such atrocities can't happen again but I am often disappointed because the world has not learned and we see genocides over and over again. I feel very strongly that we have to in our daily lives fight racism and sexism at the point of occurrence if we are to have a more peaceful world."

Cardwell reader Laurent Dubova, 10, explained that pupils were having a special assembly about Holocaust Memorial Day and working on it over the next few weeks. He said: "Anne Frank was sad because she didn't have a friend and had to pretend to speak to her diary. We should always share and play with someone if they're from another religion."

Fellow pupil Kayleigh Jackson, nine, added: "We have to treat people the same way we treat the people we really like because they will treat you nice back."

Trophy hunting

GEOFF Nutkins, the curator of Shoreham Aircraft Museum, says grandchildren frequently visit - but have little knowledge about that time when Britain was fighting for its life, because grandad never talked about it. "And yet we know that 'trophy-hunting' was a national obsession among kids at that time," he told GT. "At the very least, the children would be collecting and swapping shrapnel from the anti-aircraft guns, or looking out for gun-bullets. "And, of course, the greatest prize would be a piece of an old aeroplane." Geoff says he'll gratefully take donations of debris, however small, from that awesome summer and autumn. He'd also like any written memories or photos of those days. The museum has part of a window from a Heinkel 111 which came down over Woolwich Arsenal. Also, with the help of Greenwich Council, Geoff and fellow-enthusiasts were allowed to dig around in the end-terrace of Barnfield Gardens, Woolwich, in the 1970s - with great success. The story started because Geoff's dad, Frank, the aircraft museum's co-founder who died last year, grew up in Greenwich and witnessed a dramatic skirmish involving twin-tailed Messerschmitt

110s, over that area in September, 1940, where a Spitfire pilot appeared to escape with his life. Geoff told us: "Dad always had vivid memories of that day. "He was living in Vernham Road, not far away, and he saw one of our airmen as his parachute opened and he came down, somewhere across the river. "Sure enough, we found some bits of Spitfire in that garden. "It was lovely seeing the expression on dad's face!" Geoff added: "My dad actually bought a wing-tip panel from German airman Walter Binder's Messerschmitt when he crashed onto gardens between Anne Street and enterprising locals had dragged an old tin bathtub out for people to throw money into. It was in aid of the Woolwich Spitfire Fund, and the fund-total of £5,000 needed to purchase a Spitfire was reached that November. "My dad's mother subsequently threw the panel in question out. She said it was smelly! "Dad did, however, come home from his own service in Bomber Command with a couple of German helmets which nan used as flower-pots. "I'm sure other people like me will remember getting dressed up on a Sunday to "go and see nan", sitting round the table with a bottle of Tizer and

Borough urged to choose Fairtrade

EVERYONE is being encouraged to "choose Fairtrade" to support farmers and workers in developing countries.

Fairtrade Fortnight starts on Monday, February 22 and Greenwich Council is urging groups and individuals across the borough to help promote the cause by running Fairtrade events.

Fairtrade guarantees a better deal for over seven million farmers and workers abroad by ensuring they receive a fair price for the goods they produce.

In the past the borough has organised and promoted many Fairtrade events including an annual fashion show, Fairtrade-themed markets and a visit to the borough by a special Fairtrade bus. And in 2006 it was awarded Fairtrade Borough status for its commitment to the cause.

Now the council is appealing for more ideas to make sure this year's events are even better.

Councillor John Fahy, who chairs the borough's fairtrade network along with Councillor Janet Gillman, said: "Greenwich wants everyone to play a role in promoting the Fairtrade message - and it has never been easier to support the cause. More local shops than ever before stock Fairtrade products like coffee, chocolate, wine and even footballs. If you don't see Fairtrade foods on the shelf at your local store, please ask them to stock them."

And he added: "We also want to hear from local groups, individuals and churches who are planning to promote Fairtrade products in Greenwich, or from people who want to help out. Give us a call, register your support and we'll help to publicise your event or put you in touch with event organisers who desperately need your support."

Many local schools already put on Fairtrade activities and they are being encouraged to raise further awareness by becoming Fairtrade schools.

For official recognition, schools have to:

- Create a Fairtrade School Steering Group - which can include teachers, pupils and other adults in the school community
- Write and adopt a Fairtrade policy

- Sell, promote and use Fairtrade products wherever possible
- Create opportunities to teach students about Fairtrade issues
- Promote and support Fairtrade in school and the wider community.

Two Secondary schools - The John Roan and Thomas Tallis - have already begun preparations to apply for the status and Greenwich is hoping that many more will now follow in their footsteps.

Cllr Fahy added: "By raising awareness in schools we are ensuring that the Fairtrade message is carried on by future generations."

Evie cares in the community

by Pat Greenwood

RETIRED nurse Evie Hoyte has turned into a full-time carer - for the residents of the estate where she's lived for 30 years.

Evie was a busy mum-of-three during her early years on the Woodville Estate, Rochester Way, Blackheath. "I started working in Greenwich in 1964. I was in general surgery at the old Brook Hospital, and in urology and general surgery at the Greenwich District Hospital.

"When I left in 1988, I went into residential social services, as a manager, an NVQ trainer, and caring for the elderly, in Tower Hamlets until I retired last September," she said.

"I'd finished with night duty. I was beginning to get more time for myself. I was at home here more often. I had more time to look after my own community."

Evie is now one of Greenwich Council's housing panel reps for the Charlton and Carnbrook area. She's on her local police safer neighbourhood panel. She's also a leading light behind Woodville's ever-popular sports days.

Evie's helped the borough's community participation team to set up a new social group for older people in nearby flats and she still finds time to go on many of the organised walks for tenant reps and their friends, and to grow-her-own on her beloved allotment!

Me & my borough

"I suppose it all started when I had the council round to do some work for me," she told GT. "I'd just given up work, we got talking, and someone suggested I get involved."

She added: "When I went to my first housing panel meeting, I was intrigued. I felt like I was 'on the outside, looking in'. But I still made sure I contributed, adding 'my little bit'. I've spoken at every meeting ever since!"

Evie, a proud great-grandmother, has been keeping a special eye on all her fellow tenants through the bad weather. I must say that our local 'bin men' were wonderful. I went out there on the Sunday - just two days after Christmas - and I couldn't believe it. Our bins were empty!

"I do what I can for everyone. There are ways you can get help, but not everyone knows HOW to do it. And I've found that Greenwich Council DOES react if we get problems. I try to be a voice for the people who don't have a strong one! I just want to make sure that people are safe and comfortable. That's my satisfaction."

● The Council's new over-50s social club at 78 Shooters Hill Road, near the Sun-in-the-Sands roundabout, meets on the first Monday of the month from 2pm until 4pm. Evie's hoping to get regulars into lawn bowls!

● Woodville, working with the council, the police, and with Charlton Athletic FC, is hoping to repeat last year's success and hold sports days for children aged three to 14 in both May and August this year. The estate, working with the council and with the football club, got 'Places for Sport' funding from Barclays Bank to revamp its playspace over two years ago.

● The Council's housing panel healthy walks take place regularly. Evie said: "I thought I knew Greenwich - but I've been to places in the borough that I've never heard of before."

COMFORT IN THE COLD: tenants' champion Evie Hoyte braves the recent cold spell

Illuminating secrets about the sun

A warm invitation awaits anyone visiting the Royal Observatory at Greenwich this month. Secrets of the Sun opens this Saturday, February 6. The show will take visitors on a journey, featuring images from the sun orbiting satellites, as well as sunspots - some more than three times the size of the Earth. Viewers will go deep inside our nearest star, peeling back its layers to reveal a core heated to 16 million degrees Celsius. The show culminates with a glimpse of the sun's ultimate fate, a slow staggering death as it struggles to use what little fuel it has left. It reveals how, when this happens in five billion years time,

Mercury and Venus will be engulfed and Earth's oceans will boil away, rendering life on this planet impossible. Astronomers working at the Royal Observatory will be on hand to answer questions about the sun and the rest of the cosmos after the show. General admission to the National Maritime Museum, Queen's House and Royal Observatory is free. Admission to Secrets of the Sun is £6 for adults and £4 for children and concessions. In a league of their own

TEAMS from two more schools will be joining a Friday night footie league which aims to unite children from different neighbourhoods.

It's the third season for the Charlton Triangle Community Football League and last month pupils from Invicta and Eglinton primary schools signed up to compete for the championship title.

The league is sponsored by Charlton Triangle Homes which manages more than a thousand homes in the Charlton area, but it is open to schools across the borough. The teams of boys and girls from Charlton Manor, Cherry Orchard, Saint Mary Magdalene, Cardwell, Thorntree, Woodhill and Sherington primary schools play every Friday evening from 4pm at the Meridian Sports Ground on Charlton Park Lane, Charlton. And with most schools supplying an A and B team, the stage is set for 46 competitive and exciting games before a grand final on April 30.

The league is designed to break down geographical boundaries and allow children from various areas to come together in the spirit of good sportsmanship. It also involves Charlton Athletic Football Club which will send a player to present the medals at the tournament finals. Ed Price who is PE co-ordinator at Charlton Manor School has run the league for two years and said: "After every game the children shake hands and celebrate their own or their opponents win. It's wonderful to run this league knowing that all the children who are involved in it look forward to each and every game." Eva Christmas who is community regeneration officer for Charlton Triangle Homes explained that their sponsorship includes supplying the medals for every player, trophies for the winning teams and catering for the final celebration event in April. She said: "We are very proud to sponsor this league for the third season. Every year it gets bigger and more exciting and it is wonderful to see these young people engaging in such a positive way."

AT YOUR SERVICE:
health advisers are on hand at Children's Centres offering advice and information about the MMR

Centres of support with MMR concerns

GREENWICH'S Children's Centres are now offering information and advice about the MMR jab as part of a nationwide campaign to increase the number of children being immunised against Mumps, Measles and Rubella.

All can be serious infectious diseases but scare stories linking the MMR with autism and bowel disease have caused anxiety among parents and many of them have decided not to let their children have the MMR jab.

Others delayed having the MMR or decided to pay for three separate jabs. The result is an increase in the number of children catching measles leading to some suffering serious complications. Independent medical experts throughout the world have found no scientific evidence to link the MMR with autism or bowel disease. In 2008 the Government was so concerned about the rising numbers of children catching measles they launched a nationwide 'catch-up' programme to immunise children from 13 months to 18 years who had either never been given the MMR or who only had one dose. The first MMR jab is given at age 13 months, the second dose is given three months later; if the child is over 18 months the second dose can be given just one month later. There is no upper age limit to have the MMR jab. If you have any concerns at all about the MMR please talk with your GP, Practice Nurse or Health Visiting Team. Your local Children's Centre team can also help with information and support.

• To find out where your local Children's Centre is located, call the Families Information Service on 020 8921 6921 or email: fis@greenwich.gov.uk Further information, including translated materials, can be obtained from: www.immunisations.nhs.uk www.mmrthefacts.co.uk www.hpa.org.uk www.nhsdirect.gov.uk or call NHS Direct on 0845 4647.

SHOW respect for your elders!

Residents of all ages are being asked to befriend, help and encourage an older person as part of a new action day designed to highlight the needs of people in care.

Dignity Action Day is on February 25 and aims to ensure people in care are treated as individuals and are given choice, control and a sense of purpose in their daily activities.

Greenwich Council is urging residents to do something to help mark the new national initiative by joining in the Dignity in Care Campaign which is set to bring care staff and the public together to make a difference to those in care.

Local people can offer their support in various ways from simply telling family, friends and colleagues about the day to offering active support.

Locals can take part by:

- Helping an older person with their shopping or gardening.

- Teaching an older person how to use a social networking site or how to use email.

- Watching an older person's favourite film with them or listening to their favourite music.

- Wearing a Dignity in Care badge – more information visit www.dignityincare.org.uk

Supporters could also show their commitment by taking direct action and campaigning for improvements in care services by becoming a 'Dignity Champion'.

Councillor Angela Cornforth, Greenwich Council's cabinet member for health and adults & older people, will be doing her bit to help mark the day by visiting sheltered housing schemes to discuss dignity in care with residents.

She said: "Dignity Action Day gives us all an opportunity to contribute to upholding the rights to dignity of people receiving care. Dignity in Care is everyone's business because one day it will almost certainly involve us too, whether that be directly or indirectly.

"Just doing something, no matter how small, will demonstrate your solidarity to a cause which is extremely important. I sincerely hope that everyone takes the opportunity to get involved."

• Greenwich Council is organising more plans to promote Dignity in Care including a dignity awards event to recognise the efforts of carers across the borough, a 'Design a Dignity Logo' competition, and a Dignity in Care charter that will outline what people in care can expect to receive.

Online guide on disabled access goes live

A NEW online guide for disabled people has gone live.

The new site called DisabledGo gives information on the accessibility of hundreds of public venues.

It means disabled people and their family and friends can find out how suitable a pub is for a wheelchair or whether a particular hotel has adapted rooms by simply logging on to www.disabledgo.com

The guide has been created by DisabledGo, a campaign group which provides access information, with support from Greenwich Council, which acquired Beacon Status for its efforts in improving accessibility in 2008-09.

Cllr Angela Cornforth, cabinet member for health and adults & older people, said: "This new guide will help assist so many of Greenwich's residents and the information will make a huge difference to those people with hearing, vision or mobility related access concerns as well as their friends and families. I sincerely hope that residents take full advantage of what the guide has to offer."

Dr Gregory Burke, founder of DisabledGo and a wheelchair user, said: "DisabledGo ends all the uncertainty of going out by providing detailed access information and enabling people to judge for themselves whether a shop, restaurant or theatre is accessible for their own requirements. I'm immensely grateful to Greenwich Council for the support they have given us, and I hope this guide will open up all that Greenwich has to offer to everyone."

LONDON BOROUGH OF GREENWICH ROAD TRAFFIC REGULATION ACT 1984 – SECTION 14 SHOOTERS HILL CARRIAGEWAY RESURFACING WORKS TEMPORARY ROAD CLOSURES – Cleanthrus Road, Eaglesfield Road, Kenilworth Gardens and Shrewsbury Lane

2. The above restrictions would only apply at such times and to such extent as shall be indicated by the placing of the appropriate traffic signs. Only one of each of the above-named side roads to Shooters Hill would be closed to vehicles at any one time. Vehicular access to properties affected by these works would be maintained wherever possible subject to the extent and operations of the works.
3. Alternative routes, where applicable, are available via local roads.

LONDON BOROUGH OF GREENWICH
Westcombe Hill – Proposed "At Any Time" Waiting and Loading Restrictions and Removal of Existing Zebra Crossing
The Greenwich (Waiting and Loading Restriction) (Amendment No. 2) Order 2010

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Greenwich Borough Council (hereinafter referred to as "the Council") proposes to make the above-mentioned Order under sections 6 and 124 of and Part IV of Schedule 9 to the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, as amended.

2. The general effect of the Order would be to:

- extend the existing double yellow line "at any time" waiting restrictions in Westcombe Hill
 - on the east side, from a point 25 metres south of Westerdale Road to the common boundary of Nos. 39 and 41 Westcombe Hill; and
 - on the west side, from a point 25 metres south of Westerdale Road to a point 10 metres south of Humber Road;
- introduce "at any time" loading restrictions on both sides of Westcombe Hill between a point 5 metres north of Station Crescent and the northern kerb-line of Humber Road; and
- formalise the existing double yellow line "at any time" waiting restriction markings in Station Crescent.

3. FURTHER NOTICE IS ALSO HEREBY GIVEN that the Council intends to remove the "zebra" pedestrian crossing (and its associated zigzag markings) located outside Nos. 66 to 68 Westcombe Hill under section 23 of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, as amended. This alteration is necessary as it would be located too close to new traffic signals that are being installed at the nearby Westcombe Park Station railway arch (to the immediate north) to control single alternate working under the arch. The zebra crossing will be replaced by a pedestrian refuge which will enable pedestrians to cross the road in two stages.

4. A copy of the proposed Order and other documents giving more detailed particulars of the Order and a map showing the location of the existing crossing and of the new traffic controls and pedestrian refuge are available for inspection during normal office hours until the end of six weeks from the date on which the Order is made or, as the case may be, the Council decides not to make the Order, at the Directorate of Regeneration, Enterprise and Skills, Strategic Transportation, Greenwich Council, Grove Building, 48 Woolwich New Road, SE18 6HQ.

5. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Strategic Transportation on 020 8921 5587.

6. Any person who wishes to object to or make other representations about the proposed Order should send a statement in writing, specifying the grounds on which any objection is made, to the Council's agents: Traffic Orders Team, Project Centre, 140 St Cross Street, London, EC1N 8PA (quoting reference PCL/TMO/PP/1097), to arrive by 23rd February 2010.

7. Persons objecting to the proposed Order should be aware that, in view of the Local Government (Access to Information) Act 1985, this Council would be legally obliged to make any comments received in response to this notice open to public inspection.

FORWARD-thinking shops, community organisations and residents living along the route to the London Olympics want to produce their own cultural contribution to "the greatest show on earth".

The East Greenwich Traders' Association has started rallying the community between Greenwich Park and The 02 arena.

After an enthusiastic first-meeting with council leaders in Woolwich last month, chair Lorraine Turton, managing director of Greenwich Communication Centre, in Trafalgar Road, told GT: "East Greenwich is in a unique position here, sandwiched as we are between two of the 2012 London Olympic venues."

"We have been looking at how other cities across the world have risen to the Olympic challenge and we identified the opportunity for economic re-generation through a 'Cultural Corridor'."

Lorraine added: "We realise that this is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to inspire and unite the whole community in an exciting initiative to celebrate our unique history with 'The East Greenwich Corridor of Culture'."

The group's aim is to give visitors something unique. They point out that East Greenwich has huge cultural and historical significance. They want to work with partners to seek out as many 'points of interest' as possible to enhance their own tourist-trail, as well as putting in more trees, creating new open spaces, and upgrading street-furniture.

They are collaborating with historians about the tourist-potential of unique locations along Thames-side Greenwich. They include the 'hidden gem' of the East Greenwich Pleasaunce park off Halstow Road, recent excavation of London's first medieval tidal mill, pubs, walks and other venues with historical, industrial and fictional connotations - including links to Enderby's Wharf with the old whaling industry, brought to life in the literary classic Moby Dick.

Any ideas and thoughts are welcome.

Lorraine added: "After our first meeting with the Council I am extremely hopeful that support for our concept of 'cultural regeneration' for this area will grow."

Cllr John Fahy, Greenwich Council's cabinet member for culture and the Olympics, said: "I welcome the enthusiasm. This is truly an example of people working together to build a stronger, vibrant community."

Diamonds in the rough

Stolen
jewellery
remains unclaimed

NO one has claimed any of the jewellery at a special display of stolen items organised by local police.

Around 22 people attended the Precious Items Fair hosted by Greenwich and Lewisham Safer Neighbourhoods Teams earlier this month but no one recognised any of the items recovered by police burglary teams.

The items included a Tiffany necklace, brooches, bracelets, earrings, watches, expensive pens and even a trombone.

Most of them were recovered when police caught up with a burglar responsible for a spate of burglaries two years ago.

The thefts took place between January and September 2008 at homes across the SE3 area.

The man responsible for most of them was arrested and charged with eight offences and served time in prison.

Local police officers organised the fair in the church hall of St Michael's and All Angels, Blackheath, in a bid to reunite the stolen items with their owners.

Sergeant Layne Strong from Blackheath Safer

ALL THAT GLITTERS: the Tiffany necklace, left, is one of many items stolen from the Blackheath area along with a pearl brooch and gold bracelet who live specifically in the SE3 area who were burgled between May and September 2008 and we would encourage them to get in touch."

Neighbourhoods Team, said: "We are still looking for people who live specifically in the SE3 area who were burgled between May and September 2008.

"Some of the items we have recovered are unique and we would be delighted to give them back to their original owners. We know that some of the items are very expensive but we are also aware that some of them might have high sentimental value.

"We believe most of these items were stolen from people

During the fair on January 16 officers from Lewisham and Greenwich Safer Neighbourhoods teams were on hand to give crime prevention advice to the public.

And they are keen to remind residents about Operation Bumblebee - the Met's operation to tackle burglary by targeting offenders and give residents advice about keeping their homes and properties safe.

They are urging householders to remember the campaign message - "Think Like a Burglar" - and to follow their seven simple tips to ensure they don't become the victims of a burglary:

- Not leaving car keys or ID documents near door and don't open the door to callers if you feel anxious
 - Close and lock all your doors and windows, even if you are only going out for a few minutes
 - Keep your valuables out of sight
 - Leave some lights on if it will be dark before you get home
 - Install a visible burglar alarm
 - Always keep sheds and outbuildings locked
 - Cancel milk or other deliveries if you will be away for days or weeks at the time.
- For more crime prevention advice on burglary, please visit metbumblebee.org for advice on securing their homes.
- SE3 residents can contact the Blackheath Westcombe Safer Neighbourhoods teams on 0208 721 2635 or 0208 721 2741.

Never too late for the MMR

MMR - three letters which have saved millions of children's lives worldwide.

The measles, mumps and rubella vaccine has been licensed in the USA for over 45 years and it has been used in the UK since 1988.

To date, more than 500 million doses have been given in over 100 countries worldwide.

Children aged over 13 months but under 18 months should be given the MMR in two doses at least three months apart.

For those over 18 months of age, the two doses can be as close as one month apart, but ideally three months.

NHS Greenwich says: "The MMR vaccine is as safe as any vaccine can be and it's never too late to get your child vaccinated."

Measles is caused by a virus and it is one of the most infectious diseases known.

It is spread through the air - on tiny droplets of moisture that are expelled when someone coughs or sneezes

So - if your child is not protected by vaccine, the chances are he or she will catch measles if they come into contact with an infectious child

Nearly everyone who catches measles will have a high fever, a rash and be unwell.

The incubation period is the first 10 to 12 days or so, and, during that time, a child infected with measles virus will not usually show any symptoms.

The first symptom is usually a fever that lasts between one and seven days.

The rash can appear as early as seven days after infection and up to 18 days after infection, but usually it appears around 14 days after. It lasts for five or six days and then fades.

An infected person remains contagious from the appearance of the first symptoms to about three or four days after the rash appears.

Children with measles have to spend about five days in bed and may be off school for ten days.

Adults are likely to suffer more complications and be ill for longer than children.

The complications of measles include chest infections, fits, swelling of the brain and brain damage. In severe cases measles can kill.

Stars...and sur

Gala night for athletes dreaming of London 2012

by Rod Kitson

IT'S getting closer. There are just 30 months to go until the 2012 London Olympic Games - and lots of it will be right here on our doorsteps in Greenwich. To highlight the array of up-and-coming athletic talent in the borough, a special presentation awards ceremony was held last week. And many of the 10-to-19-year-olds who gathered in Woolwich Town Hall on January 26 will be dreaming of competing alongside the best of British at the London Games.

Twenty-five awards were over a range of categories, and were presented by Greenwich Starting Blocks' Steve Sutherland, a trustee of the local charity formed to support the young sports stars of the borough.

Also there to give an inspirational pep talk to the athletes was triple Paralympics gold medal winning swimmer Giles Long. He talked of his great will to succeed after he was diagnosed with a bone tumour at the age of 13, news that should have shattered his sporting ambitions.

But, using just one arm Giles battled through adversity, eventually winning gold at three consecutive Paralympic Games in the 100-metre butterfly. He emphasised the importance of teamwork and of the support he received from an organisation similar to Starting Blocks. Giles said: "I swam as an individual, but we trained as a team. I got £400 from a local body which put petrol in my car for a year - which meant I could train. That made all the difference. The Games are coming to your back yard, and I believe they are going to transform your lives."

● SINCE Greenwich Starting Blocks was formed in 2007 a total of £27,577 has been paid in bursaries to 25 Greenwich athletes, £11,922 of it since last September. In all, 53 athletes have received Wellness memberships to borough leisure centres. Find out more at www.greenwichstartingblocks.org

Dashing Dave

AMBITIOUS sixteen-year-old David Bolarinwa is looking forward to training in warmer climes, and despite his age, is hoping to make the 2012 Games. The 100m sprinter is set to train in America in a bid to win a place on the team.

He said: "I am going off to Florida for warm weather training later this year which I'm really looking forward to." And the Thamesmead sprinter added: "2012 is a wonderful opportunity for young people to get involved in sport. I'm excited about the Olympics coming to the area, and it would be great if I could go to these Games. My friends and family think that 2016 is more realistic, but I'm being really ambitious and going for 2012." Winning a talent award,

David said: "Starting Blocks has really helped with my training, and also with things like transport."

Kirsty work

SPRINTER Kirsty Robinson hopes to emulate Usain Bolt's record ...by competing in both the 100 and 200m events in 2012. The 18-year-old runner from Plumstead is hoping injuries won't scupper her chances of making the 2012 team. "I've had quite a few injuries before," she said, "but luckily I've got a great physio who sorted out my hamstring. Last year I did more training than ever, so I've strengthened up and hopefully it'll be all good from now on." Kirsty, who won a regional award at the ceremony, added: "Usain Bolt is a sporting hero of mine at the moment, and so are a lot of the Jamaican women's team too."

Sophie's hoping...

THE 2012 Games may have come around too soon for 14-year-old middle distance runner Sophie Parkes, but the 800m specialist is a real contender for the GB team for Rio in 2016. And with the help of Starting Blocks the teenager has come a long way to realising her dream. Sophie told GT: "Training can be really expensive, so Starting Blocks has been a great help with funding." Taking on a new discipline has meant a heavier schedule too. "I have started working towards the modern pentathlon, I train three times a week. Starting Blocks have been very supportive," the young athlete said. And although Sophie may be too young to make the team in two years' time, it is still an inspiring prospect to have so many great athletes on her doorstep. "I am very excited about 2012," she told GT. "It will be a fantastic event."

Supporting roles

2 and their Starting Blocks supporters

Keep-fit Curtis

FORMER Blackheath Bluecoat student Curtis Griffith-Parker's worst fear is getting injured before the Games begin.

The 19-year-old shot putter and discus thrower is hotly-tipped to make Team GB in time for the Games, but said: "I have had an ankle twinge before, but I've got a good physio and I'm in good shape. My worst nightmare would be getting an injury to my throwing arm or in one of my joints." Curtis' training regime remains solid, and there are some parts of his gruelling six-times-per-week schedule he likes more than others.

"I like all the throwing, strength and explosive work, but don't enjoy the long-distance running - I don't see the point of it with my events!"

Curtis - who won an Ambassador award - added: "I am confident of making the team, so we'll see how it goes this season. Hopefully I can throw far and get my qualification."

And the Cambridge Harrier added: "It's great down at the club, there are a lot of good athletes and that helps to motivate me even more."

Lorraine's leap

IT'S a leap into the unknown for long jumper Lorraine Ugen, but the 18-year-old from Thamesmead has been working hard to make the 2012 Britain team. She told GT: "I'm feeling happy about the Games coming to London - and hopefully I'll qualify. My training's going really well and I'm going five times a week." The athlete's studies are helping her extra-curricular cause too. "Now I'm at university, it's a lot easier to train, there is more equipment and more opportunity," she said. Lorraine has also remained free of the niggles that can blight a sporting career. "I've never been injured before, 'touch wood'," she said. "And my family support me whatever I do. The money from starting Blocks has really helped, with things like getting the proper shoes for long jump."

ALL SMILES: triple Paralympic gold medal winner Giles Long finds a quiet moment with Greenwich Council leader Chris Roberts and 15-year-old weightlifting sensation Zoe Smith, who has London 2012 firmly in her sights

Greenwich Council's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 170

How the lettings policy works

Housing applicants are placed within 'Bands' according to the Council's policy for letting homes. Your band information is on the letter that the Council sent you when you registered, or when your circumstances changed.

Property adverts say which band can apply and any other criteria. When all the bids are received, the property is then offered to:

For properties advertised for band A and band B - the applicant who has had this priority status for the longest time.
For properties advertised for band C applicants - the applicant who has been registered on the Council's list for the longest time.

Band

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the council must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

1 Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, get an application form by phoning the Access and Allocations Section on 020 8921 2941. Or pick up a form from any neighbourhood office.

2 Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Council about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

3 Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.greenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free in either your neighbourhood housing office, library or UK Online centre.

4 Apply in one of two ways

- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Council's website

Love-ly location

A movie filmed entirely in Greenwich, acted, directed and crewed by local people is set for a big screen release in the spring

MAKING MOVIES:

GREENWICH is no stranger to the movie business. Mega-budget smashes from James Bond to the Golden Compass have used the area's picturesque backdrop for cameos on the big screen. But these are but fleeting glimpses, and far more concerned with the aesthetics, opulence and history of the Royal Park and it's regal buildings than the fabric of the life that knits the town together. Less common are entire films set in the area, and lesser still, those that feature a local cast and crew, and a timely, original storyline.

Director Carl Medland has lived in Greenwich for over a decade and his latest film - The Cost Of Love, was made in the area, by people from the area. "I wanted to make a modern love story that spoke to us all," the filmmaker told Scene. "I have seen endless love stories that focus on how boy meets girl - will they or won't they get together - of course they will, and I wanted to make a film that looks a little deeper into love, to see what is the real cost of love."

Slated for release in the spring, The Cost Of Love is an unconventional love story. Written and directed by Medland, it is a day in the life of central character Dale (Christopher Kelham), a gay man in love with his best friend, with plans to derail the traditional and straight Asian wedding that threatens to spoil the party.

Carl said: "It will speak loudest to a gay audience, although I aimed to make a film that speaks to everyone regardless of race, colour, sexuality or age, and Greenwich is a real cosmopolitan area of London." Medland has made over 20 short films, but TCOL is his feature debut.

The budget for the film was a fraction of a Hollywood blockbuster, and the director had to call in a few favours to make ends meet. "The crew of about 20 people often doubled as the extras and they were mostly local people. I had a great team around me - obviously we were making the film in a credit crunch. On the one hand it was really bad timing, but on the other hand it meant we could negotiate more deals and people were generally in high spirits and wanted to give locations and their time for free. They really got behind the project," the director enthused.

And in writing the script, Medland was conscious of making a genuine representation of 21st Century London. He said: "Some of it was written from personal experience - it's a love story that I could connect to, but it is based on a lot of experiences that go on around me - I don't shy away from the subject matter, like there was a gay beating that had happened to one of the actors just before we started filming, and we worked that into the script. I wanted it to be edgy and truthful."

The film is to be released in the spring with the premiere shown at the Greenwich Picturehouse, and will be a chance to say farewell to one of the cast members.

"Michael Joyce was a well-known character in Greenwich, he played a drag queen in the film, but was sadly killed in a road accident after filming was completed. There are about 300 people who want to see his farewell performance."

Hamsters on the loose for Greenwich gig

A CHEEKILY named rock band are set to perform in the burrow, sorry, the borough, later this week.

The Hamsters play Blackheath Halls on Saturday, February 6, and lead singer and guitarist, Barry Martin told Scene: "We play bluesy-rock. If people like the music of Eric Clapton, ZZ Top and Jimi Hendrix, they'll like us."

"On Saturday we'll be doing three sets: a Hendrix set; a ZZ Top set and a set of our own songs as well." And the band's cover versions of the afro-haired guitar legend have been so well-received that they have been used as backing music to one of the world's biggest TV shows. "Our version of Voodoo Chile was used on the BBC's Top Gear," said Barry. "They used it on a piece a couple of years ago, which was nice. We were sat watching the telly and then that came on with us playing it - it was quite amazing." The Essex three-piece started out as session musicians - trained studio virtuosos - playing on the records of some of the country's most famous musical exports. "We've played alongside Eric Clapton, Phil Collins and Alison Moyet," said Barry. And in the tradition of great rock

'n' roll bands, some of the finer details are a little hazy. "How many albums have we done? That's a good question! We've done about six, I think," recalled Barry. "We've done a couple of Jimi Hendrix covers and the rest are our own thing." Cherry-picking the best songs from the American icon's rich back catalogue, Barry makes no bones about the songs chosen. "There are a lot of Hendrix songs that aren't so well known, so we pick the ones that everyone will know - it's all about what the crowd wants, really."

Show starts at 8pm. Tickets £13/11.50

FINAL SCENE

He's a free man

Morgan Freeman does justice to the role of Nelson Mandela in Clint Eastwood's hotly anticipated South African odyssey, Invictus

IT was only a matter of time before an actor brave enough took on the herculean task of doing justice to one of the 20th - and 21st - Century's biggest icons. The human struggle of Nelson Mandela is laid bare in Invictus, tipped to be one of the most evocative films of the year, with Morgan Freeman taking the role of the great man. Martin McHugh reviews... THIS is an inspirational film and it was an inspiration casting Morgan Freeman to portray Nelson Mandela – a part he was arguably born to play. That said, the film seems to start out as a film about the South African leader but sort of becomes a rugby film half way through. Albeit the rugby footage is very well staged - which is a bit of a surprise coming from Hollywood - and the scenes will delight rugby fans. On the downside though, Freeman is fantastic as Mandela, and is a shame that he seems to get a little lost in the scrum. Invictus tells the story of the South African World Cup side of 1995 as a metaphor for the rebuilding of the nation after the fall of apartheid. In a time of great tension Mandela tries to use the event as a symbol of forgiveness, peace and reconciliation. The idea is a neat concept based on actual events and is another thought provoking film from Clint Eastwood, who is the bravest and most cerebral of the directors working in Hollywood today. He is also one of the better directors around and seems to get more confident with age.

WHILE Hot Chip were one of a slew of bands from the early noughties to adopt an electro-pop sound, they stood apart from the pack both for their melodies and for their fully live, band-oriented approach.

One Life Stand is a full-blooded leap into the unknown, an album that is awash with Hot Chip's trademark creativity punctuated with a searing emotional intensity. OLS is arguably Hot Chip's most complete body of work to date, an album that is more cohesive and soulful than 2007's directionless Made In The Dark and more ambitious than 2005's Mercury nominated The Warning. With Joe Goddard, Alexis Taylor, Felix Martin, Al Doyle and Owen Clarke splitting writing and production duties it is no surprise that they borrow, create and take inspiration from a plethora of influences. OLS sees a proliferation of influences as diverse as the burgeoning UK funk scene to soul music, modern R&B, Northern Soul, Gospel, Golden Age Electronica, Detroit House, Southern soul, the sounds of Arthur Russell, Prince and Theo Parish – and surprisingly they all sit not-too-awkwardly alongside the band's signature pop aesthetics.

The songs on the album were largely written around skeletal pianos, Wurliizers, or keyboards, and demoed at the group leaders' home studios. They were then taken to Lanark Studio - owned by Hot Chip - to be fully produced and fleshed out with the three remaining band members. In addition, recording contributions from legendary innovators of their respective fields Charles Hayward (This Heat), and Fimber Bravo (Steel n' Skin), as well as newer musicians Leo Taylor (The Invisible), string arrangers and experimental composers. Featuring an archetypal Hot Chip song, title track and first single, One Life Stand is built on a metronomic but pulsing groove, and reaches a joyously simple and naive climax of monogamous embracement. Top marks for endeavour then, the album earnestly grasps at the listener and succeeds in the main to get its audience ready for the floor. Just not as ready as it was a couple of years ago, though, when Hot Chip were the darlings of the club scene's zeitgeist.

STRAPPED FOR CRASH: Hot Chip

M-Powering

BMW's new 'budget' coupe

ASK anyone which sports saloon they would like to have on their drive, and the chances are that the BMW M3 will appear high on their list.

While the "M" on the badge signifies cars that have been tuned by BMW's performance division, it's also 'M' for Mega-price-tag. At a cost of over £50k, the heavy toll leaves most dreamers waiting for their lottery numbers to come in, and, if you happen to be a young driver then the chances of getting your hands on one are even slimmer. So enter the new M1, a 1 Series coupe which has had the full M division treatment and could be yours for a snip at £38k. OK, so it's still not within the realms of the cretinous G-Wiz or similar, but you get what you pay for and Bimmer-lovers will be able to order the car from local BMW dealers, starting from next year. The car offers BMW 'M' performance to buyers who would normally walk straight past the M3 based on its whopping price tag, but isn't a low fat bargain bucket of an M either. No sir, this car packs 350 brake horsepower (Bhp), and makes it to 60mph in a tidy 5.5 seconds. All of which is achieved using the car company's latest straight six-cylinder engine which comes with a pair of turbos strapped on for good measure.

At the annual motor show in Frankfurt last year - before plans for the car were unveiled, one question I was burning to ask was whether or not the auto firm would be going ahead to build this car. The answer was an inconclusive red herring – if fittingly German in its practicality: "Well, the chassis is a little small to fit such a large engine," was the cagey response. So, it was all a bit hush hush at the time, but now its release has been confirmed for some time in 2011. And to get around the sizable problem of engine vs frame, they have simply added a "power bulge" similar to the X6 Hybrid, stuck on some new wing mirrors, wider front arches, fat sills and a bit of carbon fibre here and there and there you have it. With the estimated price a couple of grand under £40k, the M1 will go head to head in a straight sprint with the new RS3 from Audi – a more hardcore racing version of the popular hatch back. But if you ask me, there really is no comparison, the rear wheel drive of the BMW will give the owner tons more fun, and the lines of a coupe out trump any hatch back. In fact, looking at the M1, it is reminiscent of the old school M3 from the 80s with its almost box-like shape and small nimble feel. I for one, can't wait to give this car a test drive.

Reid the one bright spot

end were they subjected to any pressure, and their precious point was not only effortlessly achieved but indisputably deserved. Mind you, that seventh goal on the road was generously donated to their cause. We'll come back to that a little later.

There was at least one bright spot for Parkinson. He was rewarded for his enterprise in recruiting local boy Kyel Reid on season-long loan from Sheffield United by the kid's lively, positive contribution. Reid provided what little encouragement there was in a dire first half, his pace and directness proving a handful for Tranny's porous defence.

Signed to provide balance on the left flank, Reid popped up on the right after 25 minutes to cut back a chance from which Deon Burton forced a fine save from Luke Daniels. From his more comfortable flank, he produced another peach of a cross which eluded a diving David Mooney by mere inches.

The manager's pleasure in Reid's display was soured by the loss before the break of back injury victim Rob Elliot, whose rusty deputy Darren Randolph started shakily but saved Charlton's bacon, not to mention their point, with a wonderful save from Ian Thomas-Moore during an unexpected flurry of late chances.

At half-time, Charlton's prospects seemed promising. Attacking their favoured North Stand end during the second period, it was reasonable to assume they were sent out, with a few pithy observations marking their cards, to take poor old Rovers apart.

POWER HEADER: Sam Sodje narrowly fails to make up for his earlier own goal against Tranmere Rovers at The Valley

The manager's pleasure in Reid's display was soured by the loss before the break of back injury victim Rob Elliot

Their best laid plans, needless to say, have aft been ganging as much pear-shaped as agley recently, so they wasted no time at all in falling behind instead. Paul McLaren swung in a right-footed cross from the left, Craig Curran nodded on and Sam Sodje involuntarily headed past the helpless Randolph. A bit freakish admittedly but the Wirralsiders's celebrations were understandably heartfelt.

Taking the lead was surprisingly simple. Holding on to it proved the harder part for Rovers. Right back Shaleum Logan temporarily staved off Charlton, his last-ditch tackle on Reid as the quicksilver winger escaped him along the left byline correctly judged legal by referee Sutton. Grant Basey's consolation corner was knocked back from the far post by Burton and scrambled over the goalline by Nicky Bailey.

Rovers had no intention of capitulating, and in rapid succession both substitute Gareth Edds and Thomas-Moore made messes of openings created by inexhaustible winger Chris Shuker; Curran skilfully curled a shot narrowly wide but was responsible for the game's most glaring miss from 10 unopposed yards; Randolph brilliantly foiled Thomas-Moore, then centre back Ian Goodison hit the bar before the Addicks picked up the late slack.

Daniels' resourcefully outstretched left leg kept out Burton's point-blank header, Bailey's rebound effort was heroically blocked but the last word belonged to Charlton's indefatigable skipper. Turning away from a tired challenge, he clipped the outside of the right post with Daniels no more than a hopeful spectator. As were the great majority of another patient, excellent crowd.

The 'shock' defeat waiting to happen

LET'S face unpleasant facts first. This was no "shock" result but one that's been coming for some time because Charlton have been travelling hard on petrol fumes. Though unbeaten in 11 league games, their fuel gauge has regularly hovered on empty with emergency top-ups of a fiver's worth keeping them on the road. In this midweek clash they ran out of gas. Even less surprising than this defeat was the identity of Orient's matchwinner. Now 36 years-old, Scott McGleish has been prolific in the lower divisions since failing to make the grade at Charlton. Still hungry for goals, he made the most of his first real chance three minutes into the second half. Astutely slipping his leash, he drifted to the far post to quietly head home Sean Thornton's cross as it cleared Frazer Richardson's straining head. Spurious claims that the game should have been halted for treatment of Nicky Bailey's imagined injury were rightly ignored. Baldly stated, the would-be thespian cried wolf once too often. He should know better by now. No call to panic, of course. By the time you read this brief report, the Addicks might have beaten Tranmere (or not) and be on their way to Walsall this evening already in the recovery position. With a full tank and a fair wind, a podium finish is still possible. Even if it's a disappointing third.

Transformation

Oh so different from 5 months ago

Charlton Ath 1
Tranmere 1

by Kevin Nolan

IT'S a dim memory now but exactly five months ago, in their fifth game of a suddenly fraught season, Charlton played Tranmere Rovers off their Prenton Park pitch.

On the evidence of their respective performances on that August afternoon, you would have confidently backed the Addicks for promotion and made dismal Rovers certainties for relegation. That may still be how it turns out, of course, but this game provided food for second thoughts.

Rovers arrived at The Valley with a record which featured one win and two draws from 13 previous away fixtures. A puny total of six goals had been scored, 27 conceded, five miserable points gained.

As sacrificial lambs to a team gunning for an immediate return to the Championship, they took some beating. Unfortunately, to Charlton's chagrin, they actually did take some beating.

It's becoming a monotonous mantra but Tranmere became the latest modest opposition to outpass and outplay Phil Parkinson's stuttering side. Not until their hosts burst into belated life a quarter hour from the
